

The Golden Bough

The Golden Bough

George Gibbs (1870 - 1942)

“The eyes of the Légionnaire, now grown accustomed to the glow of the light, made sure that the figure had not moved, nor was aware of his silent and furtive approach. Two plans of action suggested themselves, one to move behind the foliage to the right and intercept the monk with the lantern should he attempt to flee toward the lights of the house nearby, the other to risk all in a frank statement, a plea for charity and asylum.” (from Chapter 1)

The Golden Bough

George Gibbs

Cover design by Kathryn Delaney
Illustration from the 1918 edition

Running time 12:20:03

Read by Tony Oliva

George Gibbs

This recording and CD cover are in the public domain and may be reproduced, distributed, or modified without permission. For more information, or to volunteer, visit librivox.org.

